

This is my topic sentence. My paragraph should be full of ideas that are not my own, but ones I got from my super awesome research earlier in the month. When I'm done with all the ideas from the same source that I've put into one paragraph, I need a citation within my paper (citation). If I have information from another source in the same paragraph, it will also need a citation (citation).

The famous person or document says, "blah blah blah, yadda, yadda, yadda." (qtd. In citation).

Citation = whatever the first piece of information is in your bibliography for this source.
